The drop deadline is July 25, 2016.

Prerequisites:

The Department of Economics checks for prerequisites in all Economics courses and students who do not meet them WILL be removed from the course. If you are not sure what the prerequisites for any courses are, check http://www.artsandsciences.utoronto.ca/ofr/calendar/crs_eco.htm. Students who wish to use courses completed at another institution or UTSC for prerequisite purposes must submit an official transcript from that institution to Ms. Robbie Innes (Undergraduate Administrator) or Ms. Jenny Fan (Commerce Assistant) at the Department of Economics PRIOR TO ENROLLING.

Course Scope:

The study of money and banking is essentially the study of the role and function of monetary aggregates in the economy, and the study of financial markets - that is, money, bond and stock markets and their interrelationships. This course will employ economic principles to organize and analyze the structure of financial markets.

This course will also study the role of the central bank, which includes its use of monetary policy to control growth and fluctuations in the Canadian economy through the chartered banking system. Furthermore, given the high degree of global financial market integration, we will also investigate the links between Canada's financial system and the international financial system.

With the onset of the subprime financial crisis, a money and banking course would not be complete without an extensive analysis of why financial crises occur. This course will use economic analysis of the effects of asymmetric information on financial markets and the economy.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is a potentially serious problem in writing assignments. There will be more details concerning the definition of plagiarism, advice on how to avoid it, and the associated penalties when we discuss the assignment in more detail. The term paper must be submitted for review through the Blackboard portal on our course website (there will be a link to access Turnitin). It is important to underscore that the Department of Economics prosecutes all cases of plagiarism vigorously. This includes "unintentional" plagiarism. Ignorance of the rules of plagiarism is specifically excluded as a defence.

University disclaimer concerning Turnitin.com:

"Normally, students will be required to submit their course essays to Turnitin.com for a review of textual similarity and detection of possible plagiarism. In doing so, students will allow their essays to be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database, where they will be used solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism. The terms that apply to the University's use of the Turnitin.com service are described on the Turnitin.com web site"

Late Assignment Policy:

There will be a 5% penalty per day for a late assignment.

If a student anticipates missing the assignment deadline due to uncontrollable circumstances, they should contact the course instructor at least 7 days in advance to explain the situation for consideration. A student may be required to submit supporting documentation at the discretion of the instructor. Please be advised, considerations will only be made for students with compelling reasons (work overload, losing a computer file and technology failure would not be considered compelling reasons). The reallocation of grades for assignments missed for legitimate reasons will be made at the discretion of the instructor.
