Office Hours: Please check the course Quercus website for the office hours.

Course Description:

This course includes two major parts. First the international trade, which examines different trade theories, and impacts of different trade policies on economies. Also, the effects of trade on the patterns of production, consumption, prices, wages, and welfare will be studied in this part. Second the international finance, which mainly discusses the macroeconomic theories of balance of payments and exchange rate in a small open economy. Theories of exchange-rate determination in a world of floating exchange rates are discussed, and the different exchange rate regimes, i.e. fixed versus flexible exchange rates are compared in terms impacts of policies and shocks, capital movements, and money supply, in short and long run.

Textbook:

Paul Krugman, Obstfeld, and Melitz, REVEL for International Economics: Theory and Policy, Access Card, 11/E, ISBN-10: 0134744527, ISBN-13: 9780134744520, available at UofT bookstore.

Evaluations:

For this course, you need to complete three term tests, a final exam, a writing assignments, and a bunch of graded assignments, with the weights and schedules shown in the table in below:

Evaluation	Weight	Date	Time
Term Test #1	15%	Nov. 13, 2019	During class hours
First semester graded assignments	7%	First semester
Term Test #2	12.5%	Jan. 29, 2020	During class hours
Second semester graded assignments	8%	Second semester
Term Test #3	12.5%	March 18, 2020	During class hours
Writing Assignment	10%	March 22, 2020	9pm, sharp
Final Exam	35%	TBD	TBD

- There will be no make-up test. If for any emergency circumstances, acceptable by the university rules, you miss a term test, the weight will be shifted to the final exam. In case of missing a test, you should inform me by email within two days from the test, and submit the hardcopy of your documentations within a week of the missed test to me, or the economics department front desk. Please do not send the scan of the documents by email. If you miss more than a term test, one will be replaced by the final exam, and the rest will receive ZERO under ANY circumstances.

- The details of the writing assignments will be announced later on. This assignment is a group assignment. The deadlines for writing assignments will not be extended, so no late deduction is applicable. No excuses like network failure or system interruption ... is acceptable. If you miss the writing assignments, they cannot be substituted by anything else.

- The graded assignments will be posted on the course Quercus website, each covering a few chapters, and are in multiple-choice format. Make sure you don't miss them, by regularly checking Quercus. If you miss them, they cannot be substituted by anything else.
- You have plenty of time to finish the writing assignments and graded assignments, but please don't leave them to the last minutes, as many urgent problems including system technical problems or medical emergencies may arise. So, no medical or health certificates or other excuses are accepted for writing assignments or graded assignments.

Emails, Quercus Messages (Inbox), and Quercus Website:

- I will use the Quercus messages (Inbox) in order to send mass emails to all students in the course. So, it is your responsibility to check your Quercus Inbox, on a regular basis, in order to get my messages. However, I will NOT expect to receive any contacts or messages in my Quercus Inbox. So, I may not check it. Also, I may NOT monitor, follow, and intervene any possible students' conversations in Quercus.
- In order to communicate with me, you must use your UofT email address and my UofT email address (given in above). Essentially, emails are used only as the last resort, and after checking the course outline and website announcements. I may address the issues sent by email in class, instead of replying by email. For questions regarding the course materials you should talk to me or TA during the office hours, class, or tutorials. In case of email, you should put the course name and section in the subject line, otherwise I will not open your email.
- I will post all the course materials including the writing assignments instructions, graded assignments, exercises and solutions, announcements, and other related materials in the course Quercus. It is your responsibility to check the website, on a regular basis, to get the information.

- Notes posted on the website may not be complete. They will be completed in class. The complete version will NOT be available.

Appeals:

For re-grading your term tests, you should submit a written request (hardcopy) including your detailed justifications for regrading and a copy of the parts of your test paper that should be regarded to me or the Economics Department, within 2 weeks after returning the results to students. After this period, no request is accepted. Writing things like “I believe I should receive more partial marks for this question” is not a good basis for re-grading. I may decide to regrade the whole test paper, so your grade can go either way, up or down after re-grading. For re-grading the writing assignment, there could be less time for the appeal, depending on the registrar office deadline for the final marks.

Behavior and Conduct in Class:

No distraction in class will be tolerated. You are asked to leave the class if you distract the class by talking to others, or use of electronic devices like cell phone, or any other devices.

Academic Integrity:

- Students should note that any form of academic misconduct will not be tolerated. Any student caught engaging in such activities will be subject to academic discipline ranging from a mark of zero on a test or examination to dismissal from the university as outlined in the academic handbook. Any student abetting or otherwise assisting in such misconduct will also be subject to academic penalties. All suspected cases will be reported to the Department of Economics and OSAI. Please consult with the university's Code of Behavior on Academic Matters: (<http://www.governingcouncil.utoronto.ca/policies/behaveac.htm>).

- In order to avoid plagiarism, your assignments may be submitted to Turnitin.com. You can find the details about what plagiarism is and how to avoid it, check this link:

Other Issues:

- Please make sure to have proper prerequisites of this course in order to avoid any problem later on with your registration for this course.

- I will follow the textbook very closely, but supplementary examples, graphs, and materials might be discussed in class. For the tests and exam, you are responsible for all the materials that are discussed in class.

- There might be marginal grade adjustments for the final grade of the course at the instructor's discretion, in terms of letter grade. In case of petition for re-grading of the final exam, the adjustment may be revised.
